Course Description:

The online class will guide participants via power point notes, articles and videos on the importance of visual supports for children with autism, the various types of visual supports such as visual schedules and task organizers, and how to create visual supports and implement these supports with children with autism in physical education.

Testimonial:

This was a very helpful class with information that I can really use in my PE class. Many of my autistic students come to my class with their daily schedules so I was familiar with the concept. However, I had never tried using my own visual supports that would be just for PE activities. I enjoyed learning about the different types of visual supports and am excited about trying them with some of my students. Very helpful instructor also!"
